

'Back To Work Or Else' Ultimatum Issued New York Subway Strikers

City Slowed To Halt By Walkout

NEW YORK (UP)—The New York City Transit Authority today moved to break a crippling strike on its giant subway system by ordering strikers to return to work by 3 p.m. or be fired.

The TA told members of the motormen's Benevolent Association and members of six other small unions which joined the strike last night that if they wanted their jobs they must give up their fight against domination by the giant Transport Workers Union.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner abandoned his "hands off" stand on the strike and called an emergency session of key city officials.

But the TA ultimatum and the mayor's action were small consolation for millions of New Yorkers faced with the immediate problems of getting to work, buying Christmas gifts, and carrying on their lives in a normal manner.

The strike of about 2,600 members of the Motormen's Benevolent Association at 5 a.m. yesterday threw rain-swept New York City (Continued on Page 3, Col. 5)

Detective Vincent Faragalli was named acting police chief starting Jan. 1 and dismissed patrolman Peter Caro was reinstated in a hectic meeting of Bristol Borough Council last night.

Faragalli was named to succeed veteran Chief Linford J. Jones whose resignation was accepted by council at the meeting in a close 9-7 roll call vote. Council President William Veitch was among the dissenters.

The seven negative votes were cast after the individual councilmen went on record that they were not "opposed to Faragalli but thought the appointment was being made hastily."

Nicol's report opened council's regular business meeting after council held a two-hour, 20-minute executive session behind closed doors.

Housewife Tells Of Myers Incident

A Levittown housewife testified in Bucks County Court this morning that Bristol Township Chief of Police John R. Stewart told her she was in her rights to kill anyone who tried to harm her bodily when a crowd lurking in front of the home of William E. Myers Jr. became "ugly."

Mrs. Leonard Snyder, 242 Dogwood Drive, testified in Doylestown as the State attempted to win a permanent injunction preventing "harassment, disturbance or acts of violence" against Levittown's first Negro family.

The Levittown woman said she called the police chief after the crowd frightened her.

The woman said the chief advised her of her rights when she asked what she could do about people threatening her.

Mrs. Snyder said the chief told her "not to go that far" but call

Pennsbury Votes Raise For Teachers

The Pennsbury Joint Board of Education last night approved a raise of $400 for all teachers and increased the minimums and maximums on its salary schedule.

They also elected Forrest C. Jobs as president of the 17-member board.

The pay hikes for some 300 members of the Pennsbury staff will become effective in September of 1958 and will cost the joint board $120,000. The salary schedule also provides for increases of $200 on all minimum salaries and an increase of $400 on maximum teacher salaries.

Jobs, a member of the Lower-Makefield Board, served four years as president of the joint board 10 years ago when the joint board was formed. Also last night at its reorganization session, the board named Raymond R.

Wiese, president of the Yardley Board, as its vice-president.

New Pay Scale

Under the new pay scale, this salary schedule will be in effect: Those holding bachelor degrees will be increased from a minimum starting salary of $3,800 to $4,000. The maximum for bachelor degrees will be raised from $6,400 to $6,800. The minimum salary for teachers holding masters degrees was raised from $4,000 to $4,200 and the maximum salary upped from $6,800 to $7,200.

Medill Bair, regional superintendent, in recommending the pay and salary scale increases, said that there are 11 vacancies in the elementary grades existing now because of lack of teachers. "We can't split some of our larger classes," he pointed out, "because we have no teachers."

He said that 82 new teachers were employed this year, for replacement and growth, and added that the system would employ about the same number next year, with some 50 being added to the elementary grades and 35 to the secondary schools. These figures, he said, were based on replacement of teachers and growth of the system.

Bair said he plans to recommend to the board early next year a plan whereby any teacher (Continued on Page 3, Col. 7)

Falls Repeals Moving Law

The Falls Township Board of Supervisors last night repealed the controversial "move-in, move-out" ordinance by a unanimous vote.

The ordinance was originally placed on the township books in March of 1955 by a previous board.

Milton Berkes, township secretary, said the ordinance created more hard feelings among people in the township than it was worth. About 100 people a month were affected by the law which required a township permit for moving in or out of the area.

Berkes said, "The ordinance was definitely an infringement on the rights of citizens in the township and that's the main reason we got rid of it."

Republicans Elder Hacker and Clifford Watson joined Democrat Berkes in voting for repeal of the ordinance.

Dead Boy's Father Sobs, 'I Don't Know Why He Did It'

By MAURY ALLEN

"Why would he want to do a thing like that?"

That was the question a grieving father asked after his son was killed by a shotgun blast from a weapon the boy was using to apparently break open a store window.

"We've never had trouble with him. He has always been a good boy," Solomon Frymyer said.

The 39-year-old native of York, Pa., a district manager with the Pilot Freight Company in Philadelphia, said Ronnie was a fine boy and a hard worker.

"He delivers papers and people always tell us how prompt he is."

Ronald, a big boy for his age, was an eighth grader at Neshaminy Junior High School.

"He was very popular with the other youngsters," the father said. "He got more phone calls than the rest of the family combined."

Mr. Frymyer said it was his weapon which killed the boy. "We used to go hunting together when he was a little younger but we haven't been out in about five years," he said.

"At one time I had about ten guns. That one was the only one I had left."

The boy is survived by two brothers, Richard, 16, a 10th grader at Neshaminy, and a baby brother, Roger, 2. His mother, Elsie, is 39.

A 13-year-old Levittown boy was killed at 2:20 a.m. today by a blast from the shotgun he apparently was using to break the window of a Country Club Shopping Center store, while police searched for him about 30 yards away.

The victim was Ronald Frymyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Frymyer, 32 Hamlet Road, Highland Park, Levittown.

The father identified the victim by his clothes. He was killed outside the Kinney Shoe Store, Country Club Shopping Center, Route 1, Levittown within 30 yards of Middle-town Township Patrolman Frank McKenna. The patrolman had been called to the scene with Patrolman Joseph Stallone after the boy had been spotted in the area with the gun.

Telephone Numbers
The victim was unidentified for several hours. He did not have any identification cards or a wallet. Police learned who he was through a slip of paper on which were written several telephone numbers and the name "Marie."

He used the butt of the gun, a single barrel, 12 gauge shotgun, to smash the window. Police said the weapon was an old hammer action gun. Apparently the victim had cocked the hammer before striking the window and the force of the blow triggered the blast. The muzzle was less than a foot away from the Frymyer boy's head when it was discharged. The pellets struck near his left temple. Powder burns were spread over a large area.

Amidst Display
The blast spun him back from the window. He landed on his back, about five feet away in the outside entry area.

The gun fell inside the window, in a display of shoes.

Patrolman McKenna, who had been approaching the store on foot, said he thought the boy was (Continued on Page 3, Col. 2)

Snow Seen Possible In L. Bucks Tonight

The weatherman had a hesitant "maybe" in his forecast today as he said this afternoon's rain would change to possible snow flurries tonight.

High winds will move in with the flurries and temperatures will dip from an afternoon high in the 40's to an overnight low near 30.

The Weather Bureau at Trenton said the snow, if it comes, would fall in flurries, without any accumulation.

Tomorrow's forecast is for cloudy skies, strong winds and temperatures in the low 30's.

The weatherman said 1.1 of an inch of rain has fallen in the last three days.

Yesterday's high was 42 with a low this morning of 37 at 5 a.m. A shaft of arctic air, accompanied by snow flurries, cut across the Canadian border into the northern plains today with dust-raising gusts reaching 50 miles per hour.

There also were light snowfalls (Continued on Page 3, Col. 5)

Former Iraq Prime Minister Says Ike 'Looks Excellent'

WASHINGTON (UP)—A visiting foreign dignitary said today in advance of President Eisenhower's scheduled physical examination that the Chief Executive "looks excellent."

Nuri-Al-Said, former prime minister of Iraq, paid a courtesy call on Eisenhower at the White House this morning.

Doctors were to examine the leader told reporters.

"He looks excellent," the Arab President at 2:30 p.m. e.s.t. to pass on whether he is fit enough to travel to Paris for next week's NATO summit meeting. Only a firm veto from the physicians is expected to keep the President from making the trip.

In view of Eisenhower's rapid recovery from the mild stroke he suffered Nov. 25, a negative verdict would come as a surprise.

The examining doctors will include nearly all of those who checked him shortly after he suffered his cerebral stroke.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon will head the U.S. delegation if Eisenhower is not allowed to attend.

The President prepared for his examination by spending four restful days at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm. He returned to Washington Monday.

In a speech at St. Louis, Mo., last night, Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams assured a Republican audience that Eisenhower "is back in the saddle. His grip on the reins is tight and sure."

14-Year-Old Charged With Four Burglaries

Clergyman Testifies In Myers Case

her "we have crosses to burn on sympathizers' lawns."
The case is expected to end tomorrow. The State will complete its plea without an actual defense being heard. In an injunction case of this type, defense consists of cross examination of witnesses or the testimony of rebuttal witnesses.

Peter Von Blum, 96 Village Lane, testified that persons outside of the home of Louis Wechsler, 39 Deep Green Lane, threatened to "beat me up," on Aug. 13.

Von Blum said he called Henry Rolfe Jr., Bristol Township manager, and asked for police protection.

According to Von Blum, Rolfe said the police know their business and are not needed in the area.

The car of the Bucks County sheriff appeared at 11:30 that night and dispersed the crowd by its presence, Von Blum said.

Von Blum identified John Bentley, James Newell, Jenny DiBattista and Mrs. Agnes Bentcliffe as "ring leaders of the gang."

He also identified John Piechowski as the person who "shuffled his feet and banged the mail box in front of the Myers home."

A young clergyman testified yesterday that "an atmosphere of hate" pervaded a Levittown meeting held last August to protest the presence of the community's first Negro family.

The Rev. Ray Harwick was permitted over defense objections to describe the gathering of some 500 persons as "an ominous thing." He is pastor of the Fairless Hills-Levittown Evangelical Reformed Church.

The clergyman was preceded on the stand by Mrs. Daisy Myers, who with her husband William and their three children purchased and moved into a home in the Dogwood Hollow section. The state is seeking a permanent injunction against what was termed harassment by their neighbors.

Mrs. Myers told of jeering crowds, noisy motorcades, and loud singing of such songs as "Old Black Joe" outside her home far into the early morning hours. Windows in the Myers' home were broken. State police finally were stationed outside the house 24 hours a day.

Protest Meeting
The protest meeting was at Levittown VFW headquarters, five days after the Myers' Aug. 10 purchase of the ranch type house on Deepgreen Lane. A temporary injunction already has been granted.

Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite yesterday overruled early defense demands that the Rev. Harwick confine himself to objective testimony from the witness stand. The clergyman is chairman of the Citizens Committee for Levittown.

James Newell of Daffodil Lane, Levittown, was quoted by the clergyman as telling the meeting: "We will do everything legal or peaceful to get the Myers family out of the community, but if that doesn't work we'll have to try something else."

Newell, an electrician, has been chairman of the Levittown Betterment Committee, a group opposed to the Myers' presence in the community of 60,000. He is one of eight persons named in the Commonwealth's injunction action.

Other defendants are Eldred Williams, Dewberry Lane; Howard and Agnes Bentcliffe, Dogwood Drive; John R. Bentley, Autumn Lane; David L. Heller, Darkleaf Lane; John T. Piechowski, Cliffe Road, and Mrs. John Brabazon, Dogwood Drive, all of Levittown.

Answers to the complaint have been filed by Bentley, an official of the Betterment group, and by Heller. Bentley says he "has always respected, honored and fostered the civil rights of all people regardless of race, creed or color."

firing at him. He explained he couldn't see the victim since he was approaching the store at an angle.

"It was reported the boy had a double barrel gun so I went to Jubilee Lanes bowling alley to telephone for help," McKenna said. In the meantime, Patrolman Stallone had checked a nearby service station, and was driving into the area. They found young Frymyer's body sprawled in a widening pool of blood.

Big Game Shell
Middletown Police Chief Howard C. Shook said the gun apparently was loaded with 00 buckshot. Used for big game, the shell has about nine pellets, each about the size of a .38 calibre slug.

Lennie Kessler, Levittown, co-proprietor of Jubilee Lanes, reported the boy's presence to police. He said Frymyer had come into the bowling establishment, without the gun. "I questioned him on what he was doing out so late, but he didn't say much," Kessler said.

He explained that Al Sozio, Bristol, manager of Hamshack's Restaurant in the center, first saw the boy. Sozio said shortly after 2 a.m. he let his wife out of the restaurant and watched her drive off.

It was then he saw the boy standing near the shoe store. Sozio said he noticed the boy loading the shotgun. Sozio said he went back in the restaurant and locked up. He came out a few minutes later and went to the bowling alley. The boy followed him a few minutes later.

Seen Outside
An employee of the bowling alley went outside after the boy and saw him standing in the entry of another store, Kessler said. The employee went back in. A few minutes later township police arrived and the shot was fired.

Sgt. Joseph Zolot and George Praul of the township police assisted in the investigation.

State police of the Fairless Hills Barracks also helped at the scene.

Police Chiefs To Ask DA's Aid On Attacks

Bucks County District Attorney Donald W. VanArtsdalen will be asked to investigate "the continuing harassment" of Lower Bucks police chiefs tonight, when the Bucks County Police Chiefs Association holds a meeting at the Buck Hotel, Feasterville.

Association President William D. Hammerschmidt, Chief of Police of Sellersville Borough, said he will propose to the membership that the district attorney be asked to intervene. He said his group will give 100 per cent support to Linford J. Jones, who last Wednesday resigned as Bristol borough chief in a controversy.

Hammerschmidt noted recent attacks and charges filed against Chiefs John R. Stewart of Bristol Township; Howard C. Shook, Middletown Township and Lt. Walter Price, of the State Police turnpike detachment.

Boy Caught After Fleeing From Police

A 14-year-old Levittown boy was in the custody of juvenile authorities today after fleeing from Bristol Township Police yesterday while being questioned about four Township burglaries.

Police identified the suspect as Michael Dougherty, 2 Mintleaf Lane, Mill Creek Falls, Levittown.

Three Blocks Chase
Officer Edward Martin and Detective Charles Shaw chased the boy for three blocks down Holly Drive, Levittown, before catching up with the youthful suspect.

The boy broke free from headquarters while he was neglected for a moment as police questioned his father.

Police said the boy admitted burglarizing the homes of George Adams, 2 Mayflower Road; David Boone, 8 Middle Road; George Stock, 2 Merryturn Road; and William Fiedler, 51 Middle Road, all Mill Creek Falls.

Yesterday Morning
All the burglaries took place early yesterday morning.

The boy, a student of Benjamin Franklin Junior High School, was arrested at the Boone home yesterday. He had gone there with his father to return $79 he had stolen, police said.

The boy, police said, had a previous record of arrests on charges of larceny.

into one of the worst transport jams in history. Streets, highways and rail lines were clogged from the center of Manhattan for miles into the suburbs. Business was disrupted by tardy or non-arriving workers; stores said they could never recover Christmas sale losses which were in the millions. Even air travel suffered—passengers were delayed up to an hour in reaching airports.

As of 6 a.m. today, police reported six subway lines were entirely out of operation; seven were running trains once an hour; 14 were on 30-minute schedules and 13 lines of the IRT system were running at almost normal.

The MBA called the strike to protest a transit authority ruling that subway workers must select a single bargaining agent in an election scheduled for next Monday. They and a number of other small craft unions had sought to escape domination of the giant Transport Workers Union through craftwide elections offering a choice between the TWU and the splinter groups.

Harold U. Mumma, governor of the second district of Optimist International, will be the guest of honor at the meeting of the Optimist Club of Lower Bucks tonight at the Keystone Hotel, Bristol.

Mr. Mumma, making his annual official visit to each of the clubs in the district, will speak at 6:30 p.m.

He also will confer with President Bill Palmer, Secretary Irv Scherwin and committee chairmen on Optimist administration and activities.

Soap Box Derby Meeting Called

Plans for Lower Bucks County's second annual Soap Box Derby will be discussed Friday night at a meeting to be held in the Courier-Times building, Route 13, Levittown at 8 p.m.

The Courier-Times, along with local service clubs and Chevrolet dealers, will sponsor the 1958 event for boys between 11 and 15 years. Jerry Fowler of Lower Makefield won the 1957 Lower Bucks race and placed 11th out of 159 boys in the All-American Soap-Box Derby at Akron, Ohio.

Hit And Run Charges Filed Against Driver

Bristol Township Police released a 17-year-old driver today in the custody of his parents on charges of hit and run driving for further action by juvenile authorities.

The boy is charged with striking a 14-year-old Levittown boy, Ernest Kanaval, 17 Rose Arbor Lane, Red Cedar Hill, in the face with a piece of lumber protruding from his car.

The driver told police he didn't realize he had struck the boy when the accident happened.

Kanaval was cut in the face and taken to the Christian Science Nursing Home, Philadelphia.

The boy was walking with a friend, Harry Hicks, 14, along Newportville Road, when he was struck by the lumber.

Kraus Fined On Violations

Rudolph Kraus, Bristol Township Commissioner and operator of Industrial Construction Company, was fined $200 with $9 costs last night for two violations of the state fire and panic code.

JP Earl B. Dougherty dismissed a third charge, that of failing to have plans for a building approved.

Dougherty levied $100 fines each on the charges that Kraus failed to submit plans for the building to the state Department of Labor and Industry, and that the building did not have proper exits. The latter charges also included a claim that a boiler was not properly insulated.

The charges were filed by local representatives of the department.

State Receives Bids On Middletown School

The state Public School Building Authority today considered unofficial low bids totaling $1,714,650 for construction of a junior high school for the Middletown Twp. School District, Bucks County.

Low bids received yesterday included: Bornstein & Son, Philadelphia, $1,195,000, general construction; Charles H. Knecht & Sons, Inc., Camden, N.J., $205,000, heating and ventilation; Mulderig, Inc., Philadelphia, $131,920, plumbing; and Porter H. Lowenthal, Philadelphia, $182,730, electrical work.

14-Year-Old Charged With Four Burglaries

her "we have crosses to burn on sympathizers' lawns."
The case is expected to end tomorrow. The State will complete its plea without an actual defense being heard. In an injunction case of this type, defense consists of cross examination of witnesses or the testimony of rebuttal witnesses.

Peter Von Blum, 96 Village Lane, testified that persons outside of the home of Louis Wechsler, 39 Deep Green Lane, threatened to "beat me up," on Aug. 13. Von Blum said he called Henry Rolles Jr., Bristol Township manager, and asked for police protection.

According to Von Blum, Rolles said the police know their business and are not needed in the area.

The car of the Bucks County sheriff appeared at 11:30 that night and dispersed the crowd by its presence, Von Blum said.

Von Blum identified John Bentley, James Newell, Jenny DiBattista and Mrs. Agnes Bentcliffe as "ring leaders of the gang."

He also identified John Piechowski as the person who "shuffled his feet and banged the mail box in front of the Myers home."

A young clergyman testified yesterday that "an atmosphere of hate" pervaded a Levittown meeting held last August to protest the presence of the community's first Negro family.

The Rev. Ray Harwick was permitted over defense objections to describe the gathering of some 500 persons as "an ominous thing." He is pastor of the Fairless Hills Levittown Evangelical Reformed Church.

The clergyman was preceded on the stand by Mrs. Daisy Myers, who with her husband William and their three children purchased and moved into a home in the Dogwood Hollow section. The state is seeking a permanent injunction against what was termed harassment by their neighbors.

Mrs. Myers told of jeering crowds, noisy motorcades, and loud singing of such songs as "Old Black Joe" outside her home far into the early morning hours. Windows in the Myers' home were broken, State police finally were stationed outside the house 24 hours a day.

Protest Meeting

The protest meeting was at Levittown VFW headquarters, five days after the Myers' Aug. 10 purchase of the ranch type house on Deepgreen Lane. A temporary injunction already has been granted.

Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite yesterday overruled early defense demands that the Rev. Harwick confine himself to objective testimony from the witness stand. The clergyman is chairman of the Citizens Committee for Levittown. James Newell of Daffodil Lane, Levittown, was quoted by the clergyman as telling the meeting:

"We will do everything legal or peaceful to get the Myers family out of the community, but if that doesn't work we'll have to try something else."

Newell, an electrician, has been chairman of the Levittown Betterment Committee, a group opposed to the Myers' presence in the community of 60,000. He is one of eight persons named in the Commonwealth's injunction action.

Other defendants are Eldred Williams, Dewberry Lane; Howard and Agnes Bentcliffe, Dogwood Drive; John R. Bentley, Autumn Lane; David L. Heller, Darkleaf Lane; John T. Piechowski, Cliffe Road, and Mrs. John Brabazon, Dogwood Drive, all of Levittown.

Answers to the complaint have been filed by Bentley, an official of the Betterment group, and by Heller. Bentley says he "has always respected, honored and fostered the civil rights of all people regardless of race, creed or color."

firing at him. He explained he couldn't see the victim since he was approaching the store at an angle.

"It was reported the boy had a double barrel gun so I went to Jubilee Lanes bowling alley to telephone for help," McKenna said. In the meantime, Patrolman Stallone had checked a nearby service station, and was driving into the area. They found young Frymyer's body sprawled in a widening pool of blood.

Big Game Shell

Middletown Police Chief Howard C. Shook said the gun apparently was loaded with 00 buckshot. Used for big game, the shell has about nine pellets, each about the size of a .38 calibre slug.

Lennie Kessler, Levittown, co-proprietor of Jubilee Lanes, reported the boy's presence to police. He said Frymyer had come into the bowling establishment, without the gun. "I questioned him on what he was doing out so late, but he didn't say much," Kessler said.

He explained that Al Sozio, Bristol, manager of Hamshack's Restaurant in the center, first saw the boy. Sozio said shortly after 2 a.m. he let his wife out of the restaurant and watched her drive off.

It was then he saw the boy standing near the shoe store. Sozio said he noticed the boy loading the shotgun. Sozio, who he went back in the restaurant and locked up. He came out a few minutes later and went to the bowling alley. The boy followed him a few minutes later.

Seen Outside

An employee of the bowling alley went outside after the boy and saw him standing in the entry of another store, Kessler said. The employee went back in. A few minutes later township police arrived and the shot was fired.

Sgt. Joseph Zolot and George Praul of the township police assisted in the investigation. State police of the Fairless Hills Barracks also helped at the scene.

'Blue Laws' Study Urged

HARRISBURG (UP) — State Sen. Joseph J. Yosko (D-Northampton) today urged the Legislature's research arm to make a comprehensive study of Pennsylvania's so-called "blue laws."

Yosko noted that during the recent legislative session 16 bills were introduced to either strengthen or repeal various Sunday retail sales statutes. However, only a measure to prohibit used car dealers to operate on Sunday was passed.

Dr. Paul H. Wueller, associate director of the commission, said the executive committee will meet Dec. 16 and at that time could name a "task force" to make the study.

Yosko presented a resolution during the 1957 session calling for studies on whether the commission should recommend that certain blue laws be repealed, retained or amended to provide greater penalties, or be submitted to local option voting.

UN Representative To Report On Hungary

UNITED NATIONS UP—Prince Wan Waihayakon of Thailand was scheduled to report to the United Nations today on the refusal of Russia and Hungary to admit him as a special representative of the General Assembly.

Prince Wan, president of the last assembly session, was named three months ago by a 60-10 vote to seek compliance by the Soviet Union and its puppet regime in Budapest with UN resolutions calling for withdrawal of Red troops from Hungary and the holding of free elections there.

7:30 p.m. at the Washington Crossing Inn. Speaker for the program is Lt. Armand Meyer, of the McGuire Air Force Base, who will discuss the "Jet Age."

Five Divisions

Andrew Cochran heads the Christmas lighting committee. He said prizes will be awarded in five divisions, including the best decorated window, best decorated door, best lawn display, most outstanding over-all display and most original display. In addition to these awards the Optimist Club will award a first prize to the most outstanding display in the business district.

Cochran said the contest is open to all residents of the Yardley-Makefield area.

Judging of the decorations will take place between Dec. 26 and 31 by a committee of non-residents. Winners will be announced immediately following and awards will be presented Jan. 8 at a meeting of the club.

Businessmen Plan Baby-Sitting Bureau

The Yardley Business Men's Association will sponsor a baby-sitting bureau on Saturday from 2:15 to 5:15 p.m. at the Pine Room of the Community Center for parents who want to shop without their children.

Catherine T. Welsh will present a puppet play entitled "The Christmas Party" to entertain the children. She will be assisted by Edward White, Mary Ann Mensch, Penny Fisher and Jane Mensch, all of Yardley, and Peter Johnson, Trenton.

Paulette McGafferty will present several specialty dances.

Owners Must Connect To Borough Sewers

More than 200 property owners in Morrisville have been warned to connect to the borough's sewer or face a penalty for failure to do so.

The Municipal Authority said it plans to notify the 220 property owners not hooked to the system. These notices will give property owners 30 days to get connected or face fines which range from $10 to $100 or a 30-day jail sentence.

Group Seeks Parking Yard Maintenance

Yardley Borough Council last night heard two requests from the Yardley Business Men's Association.

The borough fathers indicated they will give favorable consideration to one and referred the other to committee.

The business group pointed out it was making plans for black-topping two parking yards, one across the street from the Yardley Bank, owned by Louis Seplow, and the other in the rear of the Continental Hotel, owned by John Keller. Both are existing parking yards.

The business men asked that Council take over maintenance of the yards when the improvements are completed, paint parking lines and police them. Council indicated it would give favorable consideration when the work is completed.

Another request to place a policeman at the corner of Main St. and Afton Ave. from 3 to 5 p.m. was referred to the safety committee, headed by Councilman Karl Rembe. It was pointed out that an officer at the present time is stationed at the school crossing at Main and College Ave. from about 3 to 3:30 p.m.

Approval was received from the State to bring the borough's two full-time police officers under social security. Council had expressed its desire earlier by passing an ordinance in favor of this project. Cost to the borough this year for placing the two men under social security will be $180.

Tri-Hi-Y To Entertain Children At Party

Children from the Lower Bucks County Child Development Center will be entertained at a special Christmas Party on Wednesday, Dec. 18.

The party will be held at Neshaminy High School and will be sponsored by the Tri-Hi-Y unit at that school.

Each member of the Tri-Hi-Y will bring a gift for one of the children. Neshaminy High School Student Council is to supply the Christmas tree.

Morrisville Council In Final '57 Confab

Morrisville Common Council's final regular meeting of the year will be held at 8 o'clock tonight at Borough Hall.

It will mark the final regular session for four Council members.

Council President Nicholas Mislan, fourth ward Democrat, was defeated in his bid for the mayoralty by Harry Simpson, Republican James E. Magee, first ward Democrat, lost to Mislan in the mayoralty primaries. Thomas T. Purcell Jr. lost to John S. Foose in the second ward Democratic primaries and William Schreiber was beaten by Lawrence E. Lane in the GOP primaries in the third ward.

After Reorganization
The new council will shape up like this when it reorganizes on Jan. 6:

First Ward, Edward J. Mannix and Joseph Danbury, both Democrats.

Second Ward, Neal Nolan, Republican, and Foose, Democrat.

Third Ward, Charles Elcock and Lane, both Republicans.

Fourth Ward, John V. Sawyer and Charles Bleasdale, both Democrats.

The new body will elect officers on Jan. 6 and make various appointments.

Extra Hours Announced By Post Offices

The Morrisville and Yardley Post Offices will be open additional hours during the Christmas rush, starting tomorrow.

Postmaster William E. Anderson on Morrisville said his office will be open these additional hours: Tomorrow, Thursday and Friday, and Dec. 16, 17, 18, 19 and 20, until 9 p.m.; Saturday, Dec. 14 and 21, until 6 p.m.; Sunday, Dec. 15 and 22, from 2 to 5 p.m. On Monday, Dec. 21, the office will close at 6 p.m.

Postmaster Mrs. Ruth McKenna listed these hours for the Yardley office: Tomorrow, Thursday and Friday, until 6 p.m.; Saturday, Dec. 14 and 21, until 6 p.m. The office will be open all next week until 6 p.m.
